people and coins

Everyone arranges a variety of coins of different sizes heads up from low to high by sounding pitch on a flat surface.

The following process is followed unsynchronized:

- All coins lying heads up are spun on their edge from low to high.
- Once all coins have stopped spinning, a pause of inactivity follows.
- The preceding two lines are repeated until all coins lie heads down.

This process may be repeated but with rules regarding heads up and down and, perhaps, low to high inverted with each repetition.
